Overview Public Review of IRS Form 990

NAICS Code 813212

NTEE Code H30

The American Institute for Cancer Research (AICR) recently filed its annual information return, Form 990, with the Internal Revenue Service (IRS). This annual filing not only fulfills an important compliance obligation, it also provides an opportunity to share information about our organization with constituents and supporters. We take both objectives seriously and believe a public charity has a responsibility to conduct its business in an open and fully transparent manner. AICR readily shares its tax filings with the public and our supporters through the website at www.aicr.org.

Compliance Obligation

The IRS requires non-profit organizations to file Form 990 annually. The return includes details about governance, operations and finances, as well as an evaluation of the organization's programs, goals and accomplishments.

With millions of non-profit organizations and public charities across the country, it is important to have a process to routinely and systematically review information about the activities of tax-exempt organizations. This annual return assists oversight agencies and the general public in their evaluation of the efficiency and effectiveness of operations and ensures non-profit organizations stay true to their charitable purpose. The majority of AICR's compliance-related disclosures are on pages 3 to 6.

AICR contemporaneously documents the board meetings held or written actions undertaken during the year. As recommended to all nonprofit organizations, AICR continues to maintain and enforce the following key policies: conflict of interest, whistleblower, document retention/destruction, and appropriate compensation.

Full Transparency

Form 990 provides an opportunity to share key information about AICR's mission and financial performance during the reporting year. While the form does not evaluate the total mission impact of the organization, it is an important source of quantitative information for donors, clients, volunteers, fundraisers and the general public.

The 2019 return is quite comprehensive and lengthy at 85 pages, so we would like to highlight a few key sections.

Revenue

Like many other non-profits, AICR's fundraising programs were affected by the COVID-19 Pandemic. AICR generated $13.8 million in reportable revenues primarily from contributions and program service revenue, a decrease of $4.4 million from the prior year. For more detail on revenue, see page 9 of the return.

Expenditures

Total expenditures decreased by almost $600,000 in fiscal year 2020. Program Service Expenses (Research and Education) comprised 62.7% of total expenditures. Overall fundraising expenses remained at 20% of the total expenditures. A detailed presentation of expenditures by function is on page 10.

Major accomplishments

AICR's mission is twofold – 1) funding research into the study of the link between diet and other lifestyle factors in lowering cancer risk and 2) educating the general public on how they can live healthier lives by following evidence-based recommendations. Despite the disruption caused by the pandemic, AICR continued all research and education programs.

Cumulatively AICR has committed over $111 million for hundreds of individual research projects at universities, hospitals and research centers throughout the United States and the world. The research that we have funded has helped transform the once-radical notion that everyday choices can dramatically reduce cancer risk, into a universally accepted medical fact. See Schedule I (page 40) for a list of grants awarded to organizations in the United States. For more information on grants, see Schedule O - pages 52 to 53.

AICR's education programs are evidence-based. This evidence comes from both the research we fund and the conclusions drawn in our scientific reports. From these findings, we produce educational materials to meet a wide variety of needs across all stages of the cancer continuum. See Schedule O, pages 67 to 79, for a complete list of educational programs and materials produced by AICR.

For a full narrative of AICR's accomplishments in Research and Education, see Schedule O, pages 49 to 77.

Guide to Other Key Information

Compensation (page 7-8) - Select information about board members, officers, highest-paid employees and top 5 independent contractors.

Balance Sheet (page 11) - At the end of fiscal year 2020, total net assets decreased by $180,000 to $12 million. Assets include $17.2 million in cash and Investments - $7.7 million is unrestricted and $4.3 million is restricted by the donor. See Schedule D (page 26) for more information on donor-restricted assets.

Schedule A (page 14) - Public Support Test is crucially important for all public charities. 33.3% or higher is considered safe. AICR exceeded that threshold and protected its status as a public charity by concluding the reporting year with 92% of public support.

AICR RESEARCH PROGRAMS

Scientific study of the relationship of diet, physical activity, and weight management to cancer risk and survivorship continues to be the primary focus of American Institute for Cancer Research (AICR) research investment and activities. Evidence shows that weight management, physical activity, food and nutrition play important roles in cancer prevention, treatment and survivorship. Research shows that approximately 40% of all cancers could be prevented if everyone reached and maintained a healthy weight, followed the recommendations for regular physical activity, consumed a healthy diet, avoided use of tobacco products and followed appropriate screening and vaccination guidelines.

AICR is unique in its focus on preventing cancer and improving survival through diet, nutrition, body composition and physical activity. We collate and interpret the latest and most authoritative global scientific research on the links between cancer and diet, nutrition, body composition and physical activity. We then translate our findings into practical, clear, evidence-based recommendations on cancer prevention for use by health professionals, individuals and governments worldwide.

In total, through FY20, AICR has committed almost $110 million for LHA For Paperwork Reduction Act Notice, see the Instructions for Form 990 or 990-EZ.

hundreds of individual research projects at universities, hospitals and research centers.

AICR pioneered the funding of research examining diet and cancer and was the first organization to devote itself to studying the role of diet and other lifestyle factors in lowering cancer risk. The research that we have funded has helped transform the once-radical notion-that everyday choices can dramatically reduce cancer risk-into a universally accepted medical fact.

Our multi-faceted investment in research continues across several core activities.

AICR Grant Program

The AICR Grant Program is dedicated to funding research on cancer prevention, treatment and survival related to diet, nutrition, body composition and physical activity. In the 2020 grant cycle, we received 116 Letters of Intent (LOIs); 47 on cancer prevention, 53 on cancer survivorship and 16 covering both areas. We invited 60 applicants to submit full applications and received 58 for our grant panel to review and discuss.

All applications are subjected to rigorous peer review. For the 2020 grant cycle, we welcomed a new Chair and Co-Chair to our Grant Review Panel; our new Chair was Dr. Richard Eckert, the John F.B. Weaver Distinguished Professor and Chair of the Department of Biochemistry and Molecular Biology and recently named Deputy Director of the University depth and breadth of expertise to evaluate the scientific merit and impact of the proposed research. Due to the restrictions imposed by the COVID-19 pandemic, the Grant Review Panel meeting was conducted virtually over three days.

Marilyn Gentry Fellowship at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill (UNC)

The AICR Marilyn Gentry Fellowship Program in Nutrition and Cancer at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill was created to develop tomorrow's leaders in nutrition research in relation to cancer. Fellows receive two years of structured mentoring while planning and conducting research. They develop a body of data that will help them compete successfully for grant funding in the future. This program has produced several graduates who have entered the nutrition-cancer field.

AICR has also funded a Distinguished Professorship at UNC to chair this program. In addition, the AICR-WCRF Institute for the Advanced Study of Diet, Nutrition and Cancer is housed within the Michael Hooker Research Center on the UNC campus. These facilities include three laboratories dedicated to researching the role of diet and nutrition in the causation, prevention and treatment of cancer.

The current Marilyn Gentry Fellow, Dr Ximena Bustamante-Marin, PhD, has successfully received additional external grant funding, is first author on a review paper (Mechanistic Targets and Intervention Strategies to Break the Obesity-Breast Cancer Link) and has expanded her collaborative network despite the limitations imposed by the COVID-19 pandemic.

AICR Expert Reports

Since 2007, AICR and its international affiliate, the World Cancer Research Fund (WCRF), have worked together on the Continuous Update Project (CUP). The CUP has built on the systematic literature review conducted for our 2007 Second Expert Report Food, Nutrition, Physical Activity, and the Prevention of Cancer: a Global Perspective. In 2018, AICR and WCRF published Diet, Nutrition, Physical Activity and Cancer: a Global Perspective, the Third Expert Report to update both the assessment of the evidence for the impact of each factor on cancer risk and revise the Cancer Prevention Recommendations the CUP provides through timely reviews and expert panel assessments of the available peer-reviewed evidence. The CUP Reports have identified emerging research areas and knowledge gaps that could be addressed within our grant program. Equally, new data generated from studies funded through our grant program are included in the CUP review. Thus, AICR's research grant programs and the CUP act synergistically to strengthen the scientific evidence on the impact of diet, nutrition, body composition and physical activity on cancer prevention and control.

Throughout FY20, the CUP has embarked on a process of evaluation and strategic planning, termed the Cup Transition, with a panel of international experts to determine the optimal directions for future research in this field. Concurrently, the CUP analysis team have completed systematic literature reviews on medical outcomes and quality of life in breast cancer survivors.

Lifestyle & Cancer Evidence to Action Symposium

In January 2020, AICR hosted its first one-day Lifestyle & Cancer Evidence to Action Symposium with the overall goal of reaching new audiences and ensure that AICR is recognized as the leading authority on the role of diet, weight and physical activity on cancer prevention and survival. This symposium, chaired by Dr. Kim Robien PhD, RD, LD, CSO, FAND, provided an overview of the AICR/WCRF Third Expert Report and the evidence that underpins our 10 Cancer Prevention Recommendations, presented how adherence to lifestyle recommendations can be assessed and how AICR/WCRF are providing leadership through national and international collaboration. In addition, this symposium presented examples of how the observational data synthesized by the CUP provides the foundational justification for clinical intervention trials, illustrated how AICR/WCRF's recommendations align with obesity prevention initiatives and complement cancer prevention goals, plus the contrast and commonality between population and individual-level obesity prevention. Finally, internationally acclaimed speakers highlighted how AICR's Cancer Prevention Recommendations are used as

AICR Public Policy Initiatives

2020 has been an unprecedented year for everyone. The pandemic has particularly emphasized the importance of policies to help people lead healthier lifestyles and mitigate disease, like mask-wearing and social distancing guidelines. In addition, the need for public health policies has been amplified, as research shows that people with obesity and other diet-related diseases, such as cancer, are more likely to suffer worse outcomes from COVID-19.

Cancer is the second leading cause of death in the U.S. and one of the costliest health conditions. Cancer prevention involves more than just our individual choices. Public policies can make it easier-or harder-for people to make decisions that support their health. By advocating for federal policies that support cancer prevention and research, AICR is helping all Americans to lead healthy lifestyles.

The Dietary Guidelines Advisory Committee (DGAC)

The Dietary Guidelines for Americans inform everything from the nutrition standards for school meals that 30 million students eat, to the food packages provided to pregnant and postpartum women and young children who participate in the WIC program. AICR has been involved in every stage of the development of the 2020-2025 Dietary Guidelines for Americans.

In 2020 we convened our advisory group to get the best scientific advice to support our comments, as well as engage these experts in our broader policy work. Members were:

-Dr. E. Banderas, Rutgers Cancer Institute

-Dr. M. Neuhouser, Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Center

-Dr. S. Steck, University of South Carolina, Cancer Prevention & Control Program (former WCRF/AICR UNC Fellow)

-Dr. C. Molmenti, Northwell School of Medicine

-Dr. C. Thomson, University of Arizona, Dept. for Prevention and Health

-Dr. K. Robien, George Washington University, School of Public Health

We attended public meetings and listened to members deliberate decisions that shape their final recommendations to the federal government. We submitted five sets of comments to the DGAC and provided oral comments during one of the public meetings.

-Our Comments on Specific Dietary Patterns and Cancer Concerns Prior to the Release of the DGAC Final Report March 2020

-Dietary Guidelines Recommendations on Sugar-Sweetened Beverages June 2020

In our final letter, we shared our research on foods and beverages that have a strong link to cancer, particularly whole grains, food containing fiber, processed meat, red meat, dairy products and coffee so that they can consider the role of these foods not only for cancer prevention but also for good health. Our work achieved its goals, and the DGAC's final scientific report included strong recommendations regarding dietary patterns, meat, added sugar and alcohol intake, and acknowledged the connection between diet and leading cancer types.

Increased Federal Funding for Cancer Research

AICR wants to ensure there is increased funding for cancer research, and especially prevention. In 2020, we continued to advocate on our own and through the coalition, One Voice Against Cancer (OVAC), for an increase in funding for the National Institutes of Health (NIH) and the National Cancer Institute (NCI). In September 2020, AICR participated in the American Association for Cancer Research's virtual Rally for Medical Research, which brought over 250 national organizations to virtual meetings with members of Congress and their staff who decide the fate of cancer research funding. Attendees, including researchers, patients, caregivers and advocates shared powerful stories detailing why increased research funding is necessary for the prevention and treatment of cancer and other debilitating diseases. AICR mobilized 3 AICR grantees/supporters to help our efforts: Dr. Christina Dieli-Conwright from the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute, Dr. Monica Baskin from the University of Alabama and Dr. Kelly Kenzik from Boston University. They visited their representatives on Capitol Hill through virtual meetings to explain the impact that AICR and other research funding has had on their own careers and the cancer field and advocated for increasing research funding through the appropriations bill.

Name of the organization American Institute for Cancer Research	Employer identification number 52-1238026

In 2020, we joined OVAC in asking for $44.7 billion for NIH for the next fiscal year, a $3 billion increase over 2020, with $6.9 billion for NCI. In 2020 the pandemic led to more urgent requests for funding and AICR participated in these advocacy efforts. We supported the provision of $10 billion in emergency relief funding to offset the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on biomedical research, and in 2020 we signed onto a letter urging the allocation of emergency funding in the Senate HEALS Act to help offset challenges faced by researchers due to the coronavirus pandemic.

Access to Lifestyle Interventions for Cancer Survivors

During 2020, AICR continued to advocate for federal policies that make living a cancer-protective lifestyle an easier and more inclusive goal.

AICR signed on to support a bill spearheaded by the Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics that was introduced this year, the Medical Nutrition Therapy Act of 2020, which extends coverage for medical nutrition therapy by Registered Dietitians (RDs/RDNs) for individuals with chronic diseases such as obesity, cancer and more. We promoted how important this bill is for cancer survivors in two blog posts. We will continue to monitor this bill and advocate for its passage.

We worked with senior staff of the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and collaborated in hosting a webinar for health professionals: Behind the Updated Label with the FDA: Nutrition Facts for Health and Cancer Prevention.

Physical Activity Guidelines

As part of AICR's priority to integrate cancer prevention research into government guidelines on physical activity, we have joined forces with other prominent groups such as the American Heart Association, American College of Lifestyle Medicine, American College of Sports Medicine and others to establish the Physical Activity Alliance. The core purpose of this alliance is to make the choice to be physically active the easy choice for all Americans through promoting evidence-based policies and opportunities for physical activity within different sectors of the economy. AICR is involved with several initiatives through this coalition, such as integrating a physical activity prescription into the health-care system.

Education: AICR's Message

AICR's education programs are evidence-based. This evidence comes from both the research we fund, and the conclusions drawn in our scientific reports. From the findings we produce educational materials to meet a wide variety of needs, across all stages of the cancer continuum.

AICR Newsletter

In FY20, AICR distributed over 1.2 million copies of its newsletter to supporters. Each quarterly issue is filled with articles on research, physical activity, weight management and nutrition, including recipes related to reducing cancer risk in prevention and survivorship. The practical tips, advice and featured stories are all made possible by AICR supporters. Each issue is reviewed by an advisory group of clinicians, registered dietitians, recipe developers and cancer researchers.

Brochures and Fact Sheets

Developed to place the latest cancer research findings in a clear, easy-to-understand format, AICR brochures, leaflets and fact sheets offer many different audiences our empowering message. Due to the launch of our Third Expert Report in May 2018, all of these resources were reviewed and updated to reflect the most current scientific evidence.

In February 2020, AICR launched a new website (www.aicr.org) to better serve our audiences. Our goal was to create a website that inspires users to take control of their health using research-backed cancer prevention and survivorship resources. With this goal in mind, our objectives were to give the AICR website a more modern look, to make it more user-friendly by reorganizing our resources and information and to improve our search engine optimization. The website continues to offer updated information on AICR research; healthy, cancer-protective recipes and fitness tips; and a host of interactive tools and resources on the science of lowering cancer risk. Following the launch of our Third Expert Report in May 2018, we have continued to update, edit and add content, ensuring the website reflects the latest scientific evidence. In FY20, AICR's website received over 1.2 million users (unique visitors) and page views exceeded 2.7 million.

AICR's website also includes inspiring stories of impact. These are testimonials by health professionals who regularly use AICR's resources to build healthier communities through cancer centers, survivorship programs and more. These also include testimonials by people who have been directly affected by cancer or know someone who has been affected by cancer, and how they have used AICR's resources to help themselves or others navigate cancer from diagnosis through survivorship.

Free E-Publications

AICR has developed a library of e-publications that deliver the latest information on lowering cancer risk straight to subscribers' inboxes. Our e-publications are reviewed by cancer researchers, clinicians, dietitians and AICR staff. In tandem with the launch of the new website, AICR redesigned the e-publications to give them a modern look that is more visually appealing. The e-publications were also renamed to better reflect their purposes.

Formerly known as eNews, AICR News is a monthly e-newsletter emphasizing the "take-home" message: How can I start living for lower cancer risk today? As of September 2020, over 155,000 people have subscribed to AICR News.

Formerly known as Health-e-Recipe, AICR Healthy Recipes is for those looking to bring the research into their kitchen with quick, easy and delicious cancer-protective recipes. All monthly recipes come from AICR's Test Kitchen and follow AICR's guidelines. As of September 2020, over 35,000 people have subscribed to AICR Healthy Recipes.

Those looking to dig deeper into the research can do so by subscribing to Research Update, formerly known as Cancer Research Update. At the close of FY20 this monthly digest of breaking news and current research in the fight against cancer had over 25,000 subscribers interested in the science of cancer risk, as well as health professionals looking to stay current.

Recharge is a monthly e-publication that serves the cancer survivor community. With content related to research, recipes, food and survivor wellness, this publication aims to help cancer patients navigate their cancer journey. As of September 2020, over 11,000 people have subscribed to Recharge.

AICR Blog and Social Media

The AICR blog (aicr.org/resources/blog) speaks to supporters; cancer patients, survivors and caregivers; health professionals; the media and the general public. The AICR blog is one way AICR engages in an ongoing discussion about research and separates cancer myths from cancer facts, especially those that are hot topics in the media. It is where we share our take on current news and encourage readers to post comments. In FY20, the AICR blog received over 244,000 users (unique visitors) and nearly 459,000 page views.

Facebook and Twitter have historically been important communication channels for AICR to share messages with a wide and diverse audience. In addition to Facebook and Twitter, AICR increased social media efforts in FY20 to help grow our brand on Instagram, LinkedIn, Pinterest and YouTube. At the end of FY20, AICR gained a total of 5,219 social media followers, impressions increased by 25% to 4.5 million and engagements increased by 168% to 358,120.

Instagram (@cancerprevention) saw the largest growth in FY20 with 2,351 new followers, totaling 4,111 followers at the end of September 2020. This is a 132% increase compared to FY19. On average, Instagram content reached 436 users daily.

At the close of FY20, AICR's Facebook page had 23,718 followers and on average, our content reached over 8,000 users daily. Twitter (@aicrtweets) had 6,759 followers, LinkedIn had 5,532 and Pinterest had

Cancer Prevention Month Awareness Campaign

In February 2020, AICR launched our annual Cancer Prevention Month campaign to raise awareness that 40% of cancers can be prevented and to provide empowering messages to help individuals take control of their health. AICR's campaign focused on the results of our ninth Cancer Risk Awareness Survey (conducted in 2019) and the launch of our redesigned Cancer Health Check with the theme "Check in With Your Health."

AICR's Vice President of Research, Nigel Brockton, PhD, did a radio media tour about the campaign on February 4, resulting in 9 interviews, 1,881 total airings and over 11.6 million in total listenership. The interviews aired nationally on NBC News Radio and on statewide networks in Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Texas and Virginia.

In February 2020, AICR's website had over 100,000 users, 1,656 people took the Cancer Health Check and AICR acquired over 9,000 new email addresses.

To help promote the campaign to a wider audience, AICR acquired 52 educational partners (organizations in the cancer, health and wellness fields) who joined us by signing a pledge in support of Cancer Prevention Month and shared our social media messages. Our partners shared over 260 social media messages that mentioned AICR and were related to our Cancer Prevention Month campaign.

New American Plate Challenge

Awareness is not enough. AICR's evidence-based materials help people learn about what they can do to protect themselves from cancer, but we also need to supply them with tools that support the kind of real, lasting behavior change that leads to lower risk. The New American Plate Challenge (NAPC) is one such tool: a free, online program for the public, consisting of a series of weekly emails and reminders that issue specific goal-oriented challenges related to AICR's 10 Cancer Prevention Recommendations. Participants engage in the weekly challenges through the NAPC website and can join and participate in the private, members' only Facebook group to give and get support from each other and NAP Challenge dietitians. The Challenge is offered twice a year and had a total of over 12,500 NAP users for FY20. The New American Plate Challenge program was in the process of being rebranded and updated in FY2020 to the Healthy10 Challenge that will launch in FY21.

Cancer Health Check

An easy-to-use interactive online tool to help individuals understand their risk for cancer (including reoccurrence and secondary cancer) that was developed using AICR's evidence-based Cancer Prevention

Recommendations. Individuals answer a series of diet, nutrition, physical activity and other lifestyle-based questions. After completing the series of questions, a report summary is provided that highlights areas that an individual is doing well and areas to focus on for further improvement. This is a very approachable tool that is used by both the general public and by health-care providers. This online based tool was launched for Cancer Prevention Month in February 2020. There was a total of over 1,600 users/e-mails collected in February 2020 and a total of over 6,500 users/e-mails collected for FY20. This innovative tool was awarded Gold/First Place in the Digital Health Resources/Tool Category in the 2020 Fall Digital Health Awards.

CancerResource Program

AICR offers a free kit of advice for newly diagnosed cancer patients and their loved ones. Developed with a team of physicians, nurses, dietitians, psychologists and cancer patients, the CancerResource: Living Well with Cancer and Beyond book lays out information patients need, including Questions to Ask Your Doctor, Treatment Options, Where to Find Help, Nutrition During Treatment and much more.

AICR staff can create customized packets that include specific, detailed and up-to-date printouts about any cancer. Requests for each packet are filled immediately to get this vital information to those who need it as quickly as possible.

In FY20 we made CancerResource into a downloadable tool (in addition to the print version) from our website and this has increased access to this important information with downloads at a rate of 26 a month.

AICR's Health Professional and Educator Community

AICR's Health Professional (HP) Community provides an online destination for health professionals, featuring a wealth of interactive tools, continuing education opportunities and practical evidence-based resources for patients and clients. In FY20, AICR sent monthly research and practice updates to more than 4,500 plus active members (dietitians, nurses, health educators, physicians, researchers, wellness professionals and others) so members could connect with AICR-and with each other-at hospitals, clinics, cancer centers, universities and departments of health. In FY20 we offered 7 new downloadable fact sheets along with an updated free downloadable of the CancerResource: Living Well with Cancer and Beyond book.

AICR hosted a webinar with the FDA on the new nutrition facts label.

The webinar "Behind the Updated Label with FDA: Nutrition Facts for Health and Cancer Prevention" had a total of 125 live attendees, 262 registrations (email collected) and over 1,500 total video views in January 2020.

AICR co-hosted a Twitter chat with the Society for Behavioral Medicine during Cancer Survivor Awareness Month on June 30, 2020, which displayed AICR's information on healthy living tips for survivors and featured AICR's experts. There was a total of 60 Twitter participants, 116 tweets and over 550,000 impressions.

Programs for Cancer Survivors

The overall aging of the U.S. population and changing prevalence of risk factors, including obesity, have increased the incidence of many types of cancer while advances in the early detection and treatment of cancer have led to reduced cancer mortality. These factors have combined to dramatically increase the number of cancer survivors. Nearly 17 million people in the US were living with a history of a cancer diagnosis as of January 2019. This number is projected to grow to more than 22 million by 2030 and to more than 26 million by 2040.

During FY20, AICR proactively funded research, developed evidence-based information and contributed tools, resources and programs that are attuned for this growing population.

Coping with Cancer in the Kitchen

Designed for cancer survivors, Coping with Cancer in the Kitchen (CCK) is a unique, evidence-based, interactive, multi-disciplinary, eight-week program with the eventual option of virtual or in-person delivery. It is based on AICR's Cancer Prevention Recommendations and packaged as a turnkey program specifically for communities. Using AICR's evidence-based curriculum, CCK is jointly delivered by a local registered dietitian and a local mental health professional. Each of its eight 90 minute sessions provide cancer survivors with knowledge, skills and support to reduce their risk of a reoccurrence and secondary cancer and to improve their overall health. CCK is the answer to many cancer survivors' questions about what to do about the "cliff" that they face post-treatment as well as the answer to many health professionals who have lamented the lack of a gold-standard, multidisciplinary, evidence-based, validated and turnkey survivorship program-until now.

Following the promising outcomes from the 2018 CCK pilots and the successful randomized controlled trial of additional CCK pilots in 2019, AICR convened an expert work group to review and prepare CCK curriculum content for scalability. In 2020, AICR began building the infrastructure to transition the successful CCK pilots into an application-based program available to communities across the United States. Meanwhile, the randomized controlled trial abstract was published in the Annals of Behavioral Medicine and AICR began preparing a full manuscript for submission to a journal.

iTHRIVE Plan

In addition to managing Coping with Cancer in the Kitchen for the survivor population, AICR also continued to actively support another program that is available for survivors online.

The iTHRIVE Plan, founded by Five to Thrive, is designed for cancer survivors to heal from cancer treatment, reduce risk of reoccurrence and achieve optimal wellness. Through our website, AICR offers this engaging and easy-to-use online platform that creates personalized lifestyle-based wellness plans for cancer survivors, which include action steps in five key lifestyle areas: diet, movement, activity, rejuvenation and spirit.

Using AICR's 10 Cancer Prevention Recommendations, AICR's CancerResource: Living Well with Cancer and Beyond book and our other written resources, AICR was proud to continue contributing evidence-based content to the Plan's diet, movement and activity areas and to begin contributing expert review and content to the Plan's rejuvenation and spirit areas by leveraging our growing network of psychosocial wellness experts.

Toll-Free Phone Services

Via AICR's toll-free number, 1-800-843-8114, members of the public can order brochures and health aids, request a free CancerResource toolkit for cancer patients, get advice from a registered dietitian (via AICR's Nutrition Hotline) and much more.

The New American Plate Cookbook

To place AICR's message about lowering cancer risk in a comprehensive and handsomely produced format, AICR's The New American Plate Cookbook (published by the University of California Press) is available in bookstores. Almost 35,000 copies have been sold, and all royalties support AICR cancer research.

Healthy Kids Today, Prevent Cancer Tomorrow

AICR also partners with Superkids Nutrition, a provider of reliable nutrition information and tools whose materials are used by over 5,000 schools in 40 states, in an education program aimed at kids, parents and teachers. The AICR Healthy Kids Today web pages <http://www.aicr.org/can-prevent/healthy-kids/> feature downloadable toolkits that help instill healthy habits linked to lower cancer risk. Each toolkit features activities, recipes and a lesson plan for teachers.

A copy of the policy is provided to each director, officer and staff member of AICR who is presently serving in a capacity where a conflict of interest could arise.

The policy is reviewed annually. If the board determines that changes do not need to be made, the policy is reaffirmed. New directors, officers, and staff members are advised of the policy in effect upon taking office or upon the start of employment, as the case may be. Since fiscal year 2010, directors, officers, executives, and senior level management staff have been required to sign a "declaration of lack of conflict of interest."

The policy provides that in the event of a conflict of interest relevant to a matter requiring action by the board, the person shall call it to the attention of the board (or committee of the board, as the case may be), and such person shall not vote on the matter. The person having a conflict of interest shall provide the board (or committee of the board, as the case may be), with any and all relevant information, and shall retire from the room in which the board (or committee of the board, as the case may be) is meeting concerning such matter, and shall not participate in the final deliberation or decision regarding the matter under consideration. The minutes of the meeting of the board (or committee of the board, as the case may be) shall reflect that the conflict of interest was disclosed and that the interested person was not present during the final discussion of such matter or vote and did not vote on such matter. When there is a doubt as to whether a conflict of interest exists, the matter shall be resolved by vote of the board of directors (or committee of the board, as the case may be), excluding the interested person.
